

LATAM Airlines Group listed on FTSE Sustainability Index for the second consecutive year

LATAM Airlines Group was listed, for the second year running, on the Financial Times Stock Exchange (FTSE) Sustainability Index, which measures companies' sustainability performance based on environmental, social and corporate governance (ESG) criteria.

Companies are evaluated based on more than 300 indicators grouped into 14 topics to measure their ESG performance. The index, created in 2001, serves as a tool for those seeking to invest in companies with sustainable practices.

In September 2019, LATAM Airlines Group was also named as one of the three most sustainable airlines in the world according to the Dow Jones Sustainability World Index, which evaluates companies based on ESG criteria including corporate governance and compliance, social reporting, development of human capital, efficiency, customer relations management as well as environmental reporting.
